

BOMB THROWN ON DOVER, ENG., BY AEROPLANE

German Official Report Says That Station and Docks Were Hit, While Great Britain Says Merely That One Person Was Killed, and Six Were Wounded

GERMANS DO NOT MENTION SECOND RAID

British Say That the Second Attack Was Made on East Coast of Kent and That There Were No Casualties—Other War Operations Announced

Dover, the great English channel port through which the main line of communication between Great Britain and France runs, was raided by a German naval aeroplane Saturday night, the German admiralty announced to-day. This raid is the same one announced from London yesterday as having been made on the east coast of Kent.

The German statement reports that bombs were dropped from the machine on the station barracks and the docks of Dover. The British account gave the casualties in this raid as one killed and six wounded. London later reported a second attack in the same locality by two seaplanes but no mention of this was contained in to-day's announcement from Berlin.

French Aeroplanes Bombed Monastir. The bombardment of Monastir in southwestern Serbia by a squadron of 45 French aeroplanes yesterday is reported by the Havas correspondent at Saloniki in a dispatch received at Paris. Considerable damage is said to have been done to ammunition depots, the quarters of the general staff and the railroad station. The correspondent also reports that the Italian expeditionary force in Albania is soon to be attacked. The Bulgarians are reported to be advancing toward Avlona, which is held by the Italians. In the interior of the Balkans the disarming of the Montenegrin soldiers continues.

A news agency dispatch from Athens, stating that negotiations for a loan by the entente powers to Greece are nearing a favorable conclusion, seems to indicate that any differences which may have arisen between Greece and the entente have been smoothed over.

The German war office report announces the capture of an advanced position north of Arras, and 71 prisoners, following successful mining operations. The report further states that, in the Argonne, the Germans occupied a section of trench after a short engagement with hand grenades.

A British official report tells of mining activity at Marcourt, Hultuch and Givency and the successful bombardment of hostile works at Monchy and Frelinghien.

Antivari and Duligno, on the Adriatic coast of Montenegro, have fallen into the hands of the Austrians, which leaves to King Nicholas only a few miles of front on the sea and gives to the Austrians command of the coast from the Gulf of Trieste virtually to the Albanian frontier.

TWO RAIDS MADE ON COAST OF KENT

Official British Announcement Say that the Casualties are One Dead and Six Injured.

London, Jan. 24.—The coast of Kent was twice raided by hostile aeroplanes and seaplanes yesterday, the first attack causing one death and injury of six persons, and the second resulting in no casualties.

An official account of the first raid was as follows: "The war office announced that, taking advantage of the bright moonlight, a hostile aeroplane visited the coast of Kent, at 1 o'clock this morning. After dropping nine bombs in rapid succession it made off to seaward.

"No naval or military damage was done, but there was some damage to private property. Incendiary bombs caused fires which were extinguished by 2 a. m."

"The following casualties occurred: One man killed; two men, one woman and three children slightly injured."

The war office announced the second raid as follows: "Following the aerial attack on the east coast of Kent early this morning, two hostile seaplanes made a second attack upon the same locality shortly after noon.

"After coming under a heavy fire the raiders disappeared, pursued by our naval and military machines.

"The enemy effected no damage, and no casualties have been reported."

of the Thames. It includes part of the city of London, but the wording of the official statement indicates that the aeroplane did not reach the city.

A point of interest in the official account of the raid is the statement that it was made by an aeroplane. Heretofore Germany has relied principally on Zeppelins for aerial attacks on England. Of late, however, there has been much discussion in England of a new type of German aeroplane, the Folger, which has been said to excel the aircraft of the allies.

The raid comes after an interval of several months during which England, so far as has been reported officially, was immune from such attacks. The last previous occurrence of this nature was on October 13, when 55 persons were killed and 114 wounded by a Zeppelin attack on London.

Only Scouting Expeditions.

London, Jan. 24.—The Times believes that Sunday's aeroplane raids were in the nature of scouting expeditions. "It has been noticed on previous occasions," says the Times, "that Zeppelin raids often have been preceded by aeroplane raids, presumably aiming at an investigation of protective measures and methods in the coast area."

AUSTRIA'S EMPEROR IS AGAIN VERY SICK

Francis Joseph's Condition Is Said to Be Causing Great Alarm—All Receptions and Audiences Canceled.

Paris, Jan. 24.—Press dispatches from Rome say that considerable anxiety is felt in Vienna in consequence of the illness of Emperor Francis Joseph, whose chronic bronchitis has assumed an acute form. They add that he is confined to the bed, that all court receptions and audiences have been suspended and that he is not even receiving the military authorities. He is being nursed by Archduchess Zita, wife of the heir to the throne, according to the same dispatches.

ADMITTED BY TURKS.

That They Sank the Persia, Both Germany and Austria Having Denied It.

London, Jan. 24.—An Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company said: "According to a Berlin report the Turkish ministry of marine is about to publish a statement to the effect that a Turkish submarine sank the steamer Persia."

"The report alleges that similar statements are being published by the German and Austrian admiralties, it being hoped by the central powers that such a declaration will settle the Persia question."

This dispatch has not been confirmed from other sources.

Both the German and Austro-Hungarian governments have announced that the Persia was sunk by one of their submarines, and investigations by the diplomatic representatives of the United States abroad have failed to reveal the real cause of the disaster.

The Persia was sunk off the island of Crete Dec. 30 with a loss of 119 passengers. The vessel went down within five minutes after a terrible explosion forward. Nobody on board claimed to have seen a submarine.

GERMANS IN CONSTANTINOPLE.

There are Now 50,000 German Troops to Back Up the Turks.

London, Jan. 24.—Fifty thousand German troops have arrived at Constantinople, according to Saloniki dispatches. British correspondents express the view that the object of this army is not an expedition against Egypt, but to support the authority of the Turkish war minister, Enver Pasha.

Greek reports say that the Turks recently have been retreating under the rule of Enver Pasha, and serious plots against him have been discovered, these being suppressed ruthlessly.

"On a single night recently," says one correspondent, "twenty-one Turkish officers, suspected of disaffection were dropped into the Bosphorus with stones around their necks."

SHIP FOUNDERED, BUT ALL WERE SAVED

British Freight Steamer Pollentia Went Down 700 Miles Off Cape Race, According to Wireless Message.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 24.—The British freight steamer Pollentia which has been reported in distress about 700 miles off Cape Race foundered last night, according to a wireless message received here. All on board were rescued.

The captain and crew of the Pollentia were saved by boats from the Giuseppe Verdi and taken aboard that steamer.

Nearly a week ago the Pollentia sprang a leak. As the pumps were unable to control the inrush of water, wireless calls for assistance were flashed broadcast. Several steamers responded to the call and for four days the Giuseppe Verdi had been standing by. At no time was there any hope of saving the Pollentia, but attempts to take off the crew were deferred because of the gale which blew incessantly, piling up tremendous seas.

Seven persons who were connected with the Ford party returned on the Kristianfjord. They were Lawrence Dornum, Joseph D. Golden, Philip A. Warner and Robert Cushing, first cabin passengers, and S. Higgins, S. Hill and Christopher Phillips, second cabin.

Other passengers were Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the explorer, and Oscar J. Frances, secretary of the American minister at Stockholm.

INCOME TAX LAW UPHeld

The United States Supreme Court Declares Measure Constitutional

DECISION FOLLOWS LONG LITIGATION

Several Cases Were Started in Various Parts of the Country

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—The United States supreme court to-day upheld the constitutionality of the income tax law.

Five separate suits to test the constitutionality of the new income tax were brought in the federal courts throughout the country soon after the law became effective and all found their way to the supreme court of the United States soon after.

For nearly 50 years the fight for and against a federal income tax has been smoldering in the courts. The income tax imposed during the Civil war and the years immediately following were not attacked with the seriousness of later cases. It was not until the Cleveland administration placed an income tax in the Wilson tariff act that the fight became serious.

The contest over the validity of the tax in 1894 and 1895 before the supreme court was one of the most bitter ever fought on before that court. One of the lawyers, James C. Carter, warned the court against setting up its judgment to thwart the will of 60,000,000 people. Joseph H. Choate, opposing, called upon the court to exercise its judicial power regardless of any popular or populist propaganda.

At first the court decided that the tax was unconstitutional as to rents from land because it was a direct tax not apportioned according to population, and it was unconstitutional as to interest on municipal bonds. Only eight judges participated and they were evenly divided as to the validity of other features of the law. A rehearing was granted and Justice Jackson, then dying, took his place on the bench to listen to the last arguments in his lifetime. Justice Harlan created a sensation by announcing from the bench that another justice had changed his mind over night on the question, and the entire tax, both as to rents and as to income from personality was set aside on the ground that it was a direct tax and not apportioned according to population, as was required by the constitution of direct taxes.

An agitation for an amendment to the constitution then began. It came to nothing until Pres. Taft recommended the enactment of an excise tax on corporations and an amendment to the constitution to permit the levying of an income tax on all income. The amendment was submitted to the states at once and was proclaimed as the 16th amendment to the constitution on March 1, 1913.

It provided: "The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes from whatever source derived without apportionment among the several states and without regard to any census or enumeration."

Congress availed itself of the first opportunity to exercise the new power by incorporating into the tariff act which became effective Oct. 3, 1913, the present income tax. Five suits, all challenging the validity of certain features of the tax were:

Frank R. Brushaber, stockholder of the Union Pacific Railroad Co., seeking in the New York federal courts, to enjoin the company from paying the tax.

John F. Dodge and Horace E. Dodge, manufacturers of Detroit, Mich., in the Michigan federal courts, to enjoin the internal revenue collector from collecting the tax, largely on the ground that it discriminated against partnerships in favor of corporations.

John R. Stanton, stockholder of the Federal Mining Co., in the Massachusetts federal courts, to enjoin the company and others from paying the tax, largely because of the 3 per cent annual deduction from income allowed mining companies for ore depletion.

Tyee Realty Co., in the New York federal court, to enjoin the collector of internal revenue.

Edwin Thorne, in the New York federal court, to enjoin the collector, largely on the ground that the additional or surtax imposed on incomes over $20,000 was unconstitutional.

In each instance the lower court held the tax constitutional, and the case was brought to the supreme court on appeal.

The cases were advanced for early hearing and were submitted to the court for decision on Oct. 15, 1915, 20 years after the first great income tax decisions.

SEIZED GAMBLING MACHINES.

Rutland Officers Found Many Men Gathered About Them.

Rutland, Jan. 24.—Deputy Sheriff Pascal Ricci and David A. Barker, together with State's Attorney C. V. Poulin, raided the store at 184 West Street in the Morgan block last night at 8 o'clock, where they found between 35 and 40 Italians gathered. The officials found two gambling machines, which were removed and taken to the county courthouse. The proprietor, Christiano Fucci, was arrested and placed in the lockup at the city hall. He will be arraigned before Judge F. G. Swinerton on a charge of having the gambling machines in his possession.

The raid was made by virtue of a warrant issued some days ago by State's Attorney Poulin, who has received numerous complaints of persons frequenting the place, claiming that machines were used there for gambling. The place has been watched for several nights and last night the officers found a big gang in the place, which was formerly used as a barber shop. Meals are served there now.

DIED CURSING AMERICANS.

Duran Brothers Were Executed in Cemetery at Juarez.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 24.—Bernardo and Federico Duran, the Mexican cattle thieves, condemned to die by the Carranza authorities for the killing of Bert Akers at San Lorenzo, a few miles below the international boundary, Friday, were executed at daylight in the cemetery at Juarez yesterday. The body of Akers was interred here late yesterday.

The Duran brothers died cursing Americans. Bernardo appealed for mercy on behalf of his brother, Federico. "It is unjust to kill two of us for one American," he said. "I am willing to die, because I killed the gringo, but my brother ought to be allowed to live."

The bodies of both Mexicans were buried immediately, but that of Bernardo, who confessed to having fired the shot that killed Akers, was exhumed to satisfy a doubt concerning the identity of the player.

Douglas Downs, an American, who was with Akers seeking stolen cows, and who escaped the bullets of Mexicans, declared Saturday night after seeing Bernardo Duran, that the prisoner was not the man who shot Akers. Downs was at the Juarez cemetery when the face of the exhumed man was exposed last yesterday and admitted that he had been mistaken Saturday night.

The certification by American officials, who were with Downs that the slayer had been duly executed served last night to calm a feeling at Yaleta, where Akers and Downs lived. Authorities had feared that the feeling of resentment in Yaleta might result in trouble.

Three Mexicans previously arrested in connection with cattle stealing at Yaleta were removed to jail in El Paso for protection.

The execution was attended by 50 Americans, of whom a number were women.

A BOSTON PLAYHOUSE DAMAGED.

Tremont Theatre Had $75,000 Fire, Due to Crossed Wires.

Boston, Jan. 24.—The Tremont theatre, the oldest playhouse in the city, staging legitimate productions, was damaged by fire yesterday. Everything between the back wall of the stage and the first balcony was destroyed. The loss is estimated at $75,000, of which $25,000 was on the properties of a theatrical company. Crossed wires in the rear of the stage are believed to have started the fire.

The flames swept the entire stage space and the confined heat burst through the tin roof with an explosion that threw debris about dangerously. One large section of the roof toppled down the stage shaft, over the heads of several firemen, but was caught among the curtain and scene shifting apparatus, and lodged there long enough to allow the escape of those below.

Swelling beyond the bounds of the stage, the flames ran across the orchestra pit, along the triple row of boxes and up to the balcony rail. The expensive box fittings were ruined by fire and water, the latter thrown in streams from hose held by firemen seated in balcony chairs.

John R. Schoffel, proprietor and manager of the theatre, said that the house probably would be closed for several months. It had been open almost continuously, except for summer closings, since 1885. Only three theatres of any class in the city antedate the burned playhouse, the Boston Park and Howard Athenaeum.

Of the total loss about $50,000 represents the damage to the theatre building. The "Daddy Long Legs" company, which is directed by Klaw and Erlanger, valued its properties at about $25,000.

STORMS STRIKE PACIFIC COAST

While a Sudden Cold Spell Grips Rocky Mountain Region

BRITISH COLUMBIA HAS SEVERE WEATHER

Alaska, Too, Is Cold, Eagle Reporting 68 Below Zero

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 24.—Flood and bad weather conditions prevail to-day throughout the Pacific coast section, seriously impeding railroad traffic. Heavy snowfalls, landslides and washouts are obstructions with which trainmen are contending.

A sudden cold snap gripped the northwest last night. At Great Falls, Mont., the temperature dropped from 30 above to four below zero in thirty minutes. British Columbia reports unusually cold weather and heavy snow. Exceedingly low temperatures are also reported in the interior of Alaska, being 68 below at Eagle.

Three hundred men, working under the direction of officials of the Great Northern railroad, are digging into the huge pile of snow and debris to-day at the spot where two cars of a west bound express were buried by an avalanche Saturday in the hope of recovering the bodies of four passengers still in the ruins. The snow in some places along the railroad line is 60 feet deep.

39 PINTS WHISKEY SEIZED IN RAID

Along with It the Officers Got Three Barrels of Lighter Stuff and Arrested

Mrs. Corlano Granai of Granite Street.

Beer in bottles, beer in barrels and beer in pitchers, with whiskey in pints and cases as a runner-up in the finals, were the fruits of a raid at 27 Granite street Saturday evening when the police arrested Mrs. Corlano Granai of that address and put her under bail of $500, pending her answer to a charge of selling illegally. This morning Mrs. Granai appeared in court with her attorney, J. Ward Carver, and asked for a continuance until Tuesday afternoon, which the magistrate, H. W. Scott, was disposed to grant. The woman's bail was admitted for the continuance.

Iroquois beer in bottles constituted one barrel of the seizure. Fenway ale in bottles another barrel. The third drum to be transferred to police headquarters was a keg of Heile's Spring ale. One case of whiskey containing 24 pints and a second case holding 15 pint bottles were also seized. The raid was made on a complaint made to Grand Juror William Wisart and the premises were searched by Chief Sinclair, Officer Harry Gamble and Officer John W. Dineen. It is said that Mrs. Granai has a charge of violating the law in a manner similar to that of the present allegation in county court.
